

“It’s safest for your partner not to drink while pregnant. Make sure you support her.”

Dr Andrew Rochford

DrinkWise Ambassador
and father of three

The National Health and Medical Research Council (NHMRC) recommends that if you and your partner are planning a pregnancy, or your partner is pregnant or breastfeeding, ‘it is safest not to drink alcohol’.

If your partner is pregnant or planning a pregnancy and needs to talk to someone immediately, call the Australian Government’s Pregnancy, Birth and Baby Helpline on 1800 882 436.

Of course, this advice does not replace advice from your health care provider. If you are concerned about your own drinking, consult your General Practitioner.
